Celtic Folk From Seattle

SeaStar hails from the rainy town of Seattle. Since 2007, Fae Wiedenhoeft and her band have been entertaining audiences with their unique blend of Celtic Folk. Their traditional sounding compositions and passionate songs are loved and revered by many across the globe.

After the successful release of their first studio album, Home, SeaStar recorded their follow up release, North Winds, on analogue reel-to-reel tape. Seattle icon, Chris Hanzek, mastered the record and it was released to popular and critical acclaim. The album, featured on No Depression's website and Celtic Music Radio as Album of the Week, blends old world traditions with new approaches to storytelling, winning the Robert Kotta Songwriting Contest for the song Sailor. Wiedenhoeft's velvet, classically trained vocals and song-writing set a lavish table for the band's golden harmonies, dreamy pop-infused guitar, and warm, mellifluous bass work.

SeaStar's love of musical storytelling is only surpassed by their desire to share it with others. SeaStar has performed for thousands of music fans and has played with folk legends like Dougie MacLean. They have toured throughout the United States, Canada, Ireland, Turkey, Scotland, Poland, England, and France. Though their star is rising, SeaStar is a band equally at home playing music in intimate settings as well as large televised concerts.

SeaStar is Fae Wiedenhoeft, Captain Chambers, Michael Falcone, & Ron Allen.
